Mrs. Harry Richards Defines Love—“Mum” Was the Word—How to “Blow” the Boys.

In the Richards' divorce case this morning in N. W. Hall of 1130 Eighth street, contracting agent for the Santa Fe Railway Company was called out of order. He had known Mr. and Mrs. Richards he said when they resided at the Hotel Merritt. He thought Mrs. Richards took good care of her son. The daughters were not with the mother at the time. He had visited Mr. and Mrs. Richards at Ninth and Center streets in the fall of 1902. Witness said that the hands of the father were on the shoulders of the mother. The defendant was very angry and called plaintiff a liar. The plaintiff said she did not know that had become of the pin and used no bad language. As witness was going away he stepped on something and in picking it up found that it was the pin for which Richards had been searching.

CRIES OVER LITTLE SON

At this part of the proceedings Mrs. Richards' mother of 1130 Eighth street entered the courtroom and placed beside the late her little five-year-old son Harry, who she stated yesterday was in the custody of her husband but without her consent. The mother pressed her son to her bosom sobbed and cried and to a couple of minutes Judge Frick refrained from propounding questions to the witness.

On cross-examination conducted by Attorney P. W. Walsh witness said that the presence of the defendant was occasioned by the supposed loss of the pin. The objectionable epithets were applied directly to the plaintiff. Otherwise, Richards so far as witness knew was affectionate to his wife and seemed to love his child.

Did Mr. Richards make any remarks to his wife after his language? asked Judge Ogden.

He did not, was the answer.

He did not show that he was sorry?

No.

What did Mrs. Richards do? Did she say that he ought not to speak that way?

She defended herself as any woman should. She said she did not know what had become of the pin—that the little boy might have taken it or that it might have disappeared in some other way.

PLAINTIFF'S LETTER.

Mrs. Richards then took the stand for the resumption of her cross-examination.

Richards took possession of the little son as soon as the latter was relinquished by the mother and placed the little fellow in the custody of some person outside the court.

Mrs. Richards said to Attorney Pulcifer that her husband's treatment had injured her health and disturbed her peace of mind.

He then handed her a letter, dated April 7, 1901, addressed to "Dear Annie" otherwise Miss Penning of San Francisco, which she admitted, she had written.

Attorney Frick objected to the introduction of the letter.

Judge Ogden asked to see the mislaid and read it through.

The court held that there was one clause in the letter in which reference of endearment was made to some person whose name was not mentioned.

"Does that clause refer to your husband?" asked Judge Ogden.

"I suppose so," answered Mrs. Richards.

Well there was no other person whom you held in that esteem, was there? queried the court.

No, was the answer.

He court admitted the letter over the objection of counsel for the plaintiff.

In the mislaid reference was made to a bunch of flowers which had been brought to her. Mr. Pulcifer asked who had given her the bunch of flowers but objection to the question was sustained.

Witness admitted that the George D. Cotton mentioned in the letter is the same man referred to in the evidence yesterday, which appears elsewhere in this paper. He is foreman in the railroad yards at West Oakland.

THE LETTER.

April 7 01—My Dear Annie—Your kind letter came yesterday. I had begun to think it about time and I longed for it. I am so happy as can be. All settled but intend doing some curtains tomorrow. Sun is just pouring in and after small luncheon am resting, about all I do anyhow. Had a big bunch of lilacs in my room and a gentleman brought me a bunch of yellow posies look like — (that's the French) but they look pretty.

COTTON'S A "PEACH"

Now about the boys in the house. A Mr. Cotton. He's a peach, eyes like Harry's, rosy cheeks, is yardmaster but oh, so devoted to his mother. I can't catch him or make an impression even though I rather fancy him. Then Mr. O'Neil—he's easy for you and you can blow him, but one has to be smart you know.

DIAS IS "MINE"

There's Mr. Dias, a confirmed bachelor. He's mine. I see he fancies me. I'm like his sister you know. We are all to go to the theatre some night. Then there is young Mr. Aldrich but he's too good and simple and Mr. McBride only 21 and Mr. De Witt only — (Continued on Page 7)

REPUBLICANS MEET TO ELECT
ROOSEVELT DELEGATES.

Judge Burnett of Santa Rosa is Chosen
Chairman of Convention.

SACRAMENTO, May 18.—The city is crowded today with delegates to the Republican State convention which met this afternoon in the Assembly chamber of the capitol for the purpose of selecting delegates to the national convention at Chicago.

While there are no contests on hand there is a good representation of party leaders from all parts of the State.

TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN

Judge A. G. Burnett of Santa Rosa is the temporary chairman of the convention.

It is generally conceded that the delegates at-large to the national convention will be Governor George C. Pardee, John D. Spreckels, George A. Knight and Judge J. W. McKinley. The last named man is from Los Angeles and an opponent to him has bobbed up in the person of ex-Senator R. N. Bulla. That is the only fight that has come to the surface so far. All other matters are to go according to the program as laid out and already published in the press of the State.

WARD WITHDRAWN

Senator M. L. Ward of San Diego had an ambition to go to Chicago as a delegate from his district but he has concluded to withdraw from the fight in view of the fact that he intends to become a candidate for Congress and does not desire to antagonize any of his interests.

The probabilities are that the delegates from Senator Ward's district will be B. F. Hunt of Santa Barbara and Edward Roberts of San Bernardino.

DELEGATES SLATED

The convention of the Four Congressional District will be held in San Francisco next Friday when it is quite certain that John McDougall and Moses Guinn will be selected as delegates.

C. B. Benham and Mitchell Phillips, both of San Francisco are slated for delegates from the Fifth Congressional District.

In the Fourth District the delegates will probably be Frank Short of Fresno and C. F. Lacey or Saines.

J. C. Needham had an ambition to go as a delegate, but he withdrew in order that his fight for re-nomination for Congress would not be interfered with.

The delegates from the Second District will be Joseph Steffens of Sacramento and W. P. Harmon of Butte.

RUSSIANS BEATEN

CHEFOO, May 18.—As a result of the engagement which the Japanese had on Monday with the Russian garrison at Kai Chou, on the coast of Liao Tung peninsula, the Russians were driven out of Kai Chou, which is the nearest point to Newchwang, with the exception of the Liao river, where there is sufficient water to a low of the landing of troops.

Chinese who recently arrived here from Newchwang, while confirming the above, also say that the Japanese are skirmishing on either side of the railroad north and south of Kai Chou.

Circulars have been posted at Newchwang and in its vicinity signed by the chief of staff of the Japanese army, advising the Chinese to maintain order and secure stocks of provisions and transport wagons, for which the Japanese will pay full value.

The small Russian guard remaining at Newchwang is ready to leave on the near approach of the enemy.

Quantities of wood and iron have been placed on board the Russian gunboat Sivouch, in Newchwang waters to be used in destroying her by fire when the last Russians evacuate Newchwang.

PIERS STILL SAFE.

CHEFOO, May 18.—11 p. m.—A fleet of junks has arrived here from Port Dainy. They bring reports that 300 Chinese and a number of Russian refugees left there Tuesday morning. The attempt to blow up the docks and piers at Port Dainy was not successful, but the iron pier at Tahen Wan was destroyed.

Heavy firing was heard north of Port Dainy on Monday.

AT PORT ARTHUR.

LONDON, May 18.—A dispatch to the Central News from Liao Yang dated today says that according to news which reached there today from Port Arthur, there have been no further attacks on the beleaguered port since May 13. The Japanese who landed at Pitzewo, it is added, appear to be pushing preparations for a land attack which it is understood will be accompanied by a renewal of the bombardment by the Japanese operations having for their object the clearing of Russian mines from Keir bay.

AVOID BATTLE.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18 6 40 p. m.—Confirming the intimations that it is Gen. Kuropatkin's purpose to avoid a decisive combat with the Japanese at the present stage of the war, the statement was made by the general staff today that the commander-in-chief is making preparations to fall back to Mukden and then on Harbin.

TOGO'S TACTICS.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—The Admiralty is now convinced by mail reports received from Port Arthur that Vice-Admiral Togo used submarine boats in his operations. A letter from Lieutenant-General Stessel says he was standing on Golden Hill when the Russian battleship Petropavlovsk went down and he saw a

President Wheeler Delivers Address to the Graduates—Large Audience in Theater.

BERKELEY, May 18.—Under the dome of a clear sky and before a throng that numbered fully 8000 people the annual commencement exercises of the State University were held today in the Greek amphitheater. Nearly every city in California was represented in the throng, parents and relatives having come to witness the conferring of degrees that were awarded the 500 graduates.

There was the conspicuous academic pomp that is always attendant on such affairs. The members of the University faculty appeared in their robes the colors of the caps designating the institutions from which they had received their degrees. Those of the students who had earned military distinction during their college career wore their natty soldier uniforms while the remainder of the collegians were attired in dignified caps and gowns of black.

GRADUATE GIVES INVOCATION.

There was unusual significance in the pronouncing of the invocation by the Rev. Carroll Melvin Davis as he had graduated from the University with the class of 1879.

It was distinctly a day for the graduates as all the speakers were members of the out-going class.

HERBERT M'LEAN EVANS.

The first speaker was Herbert M'Lean Evans of the college of natural sciences, who had chosen for his theme, "The Relation of Biology to Modern Life." He said:

"At a time like the present, it is important for us while preserving the venerable traditions and all of the ancient functions of attention, those significant office which it has served and is serving in modern civilization.

"Of these offices, certainly not the least important and perhaps the most distinctive is that of fostering and promoting scientific research. This indeed, can be no unworthy aim of a university's effort, for the extension of the horizon of human knowledge in whatever direction, must be deemed one of the noblest activities of a free and enlightened people.

"But apart from ideals justified to the lover of knowledge, we can call to mind the many remarkable practical applications which such labor has produced and which have so essentially changed the whole aspect of our civilization. Scientific research! Today, the very mention of the name brings us at once into an ever widening realm almost too vast to be compassed by one mind. I shall mention here only a few of the functions of modern biology. What has biology contributed?"

Let us consider its relation to the problems of human life. It is not saying too much to affirm that from many brilliant researches regarding the lower animals which the last half century has given us, we have gained new inspiration and light into still deeper questions of the origin and destiny of man himself. What is especially noteworthy however, in this respect is the fact that from this study we have been actually led to a clearer and more accurate comprehension of the functions and life processes of the human body.

FRED LOUIS DREHER.

"Chivalry in the Legal Profession" was the topic on which Fred Louis Dreher of the Hastings College of the Law discoursed.

ELIZABETH CECILIA ARNEILL.

The women of the class had a representative in Miss Elizabeth Cecilia Arneill who spoke on "The College Life of Women." She said:

The college world is practically the same everywhere. It has its politics, its clubs, papers and what not, each indispensable to some part of college life. All its students have the same aim whether they are at Vassar, Barnard or California. They have come for knowledge that will fit them to do their part in life best. Each school has its own traditions, its own methods, but all reach the same ends.

(Of the many women students one finds that the same general types are everywhere. There is the girl who makes college one long task. She has no time for anything but work and goes into college and comes out again the same girl, except that she knows more of Latin roots than she did before. She has no greater knowledge of people, nor appreciation of life. In direct contrast to her is the girl who does nothing more, the college butterfly. Her plight is even more deplorable.

The third type is the ideal one. First of all she is a student. To her college has a serious meaning for it is the preparation for her future work, whether it be homemaking or a profession. So she does her work, even if she is working her way or has other

It is conceded that Congressman Mondell will be renominated. For the gubernatorial nomination there has been a wide contest between Governor Emmett C. Chatterton and B. B. Brooks.

The delegates to the National convention will undoubtedly be instructed for Roosevelt.

ABANDONED BABY "STAND PATTERS" YEARS AGO. IN CONTROL.

MOTHER NOW DEMANDS CHILD FROM THOSE WHO HAVE CARED FOR IT.

After abandoning her illegitimate baby girl six years ago, a woman claiming to be the mother has made a demand for the child and an irregularity in the court proceedings gives her a strong hold upon the girl now about seven years of age. Proceedings have been begun by Attorney Tom Bradley in behalf of David and Lillie Hyman to straighten out court records which show only that adoption proceedings were begun by them but never finished. The story goes back to a blistering night in March, 1897, when the baby was left on the door step of the Hyman home in this city. A knock at the door was answered by Hyman who upon going to the portal discovered nothing until his attention was attracted to the "step" at his feet. There was a bundle and picking it up he carried it into the house where he and his wife found a tiny infant. Hyman ran out of his house in an effort to find the person who had left the bundle but the darkness and rain soon made it realize that his efforts would be futile. After keeping the child for some time they became attached to it and adopted it.

It is supposed that the mother kept track of what was done with the child and might have been an onlooker at its adoption in the court. The order, however, made by Judge Ogden at that time was never filed with the County Clerk. Thomas Garret, who was Hyman's attorney at that time is dead and cannot aid in the matter. Hyman says that he received the final order made in the case from Garret and took it home with him and has since lost or destroyed it. He says that he had no idea it was part of the record while Garret evidently thought that he would file it with the other papers. Lately Hyman has received two letters from a woman who says that she is the child's mother and now says that she wants it. She has reached out for the child from the darkness just as she thrust it upon Hyman and his wife the night she gave it to them. They have reared the child as their own but so far as the records show they have no right to it and the woman carries out her threats an interesting struggle over its possession will be the result.

NEW QUARTERS FOR SECURITY BANK.

The Security Bank and Trust Company has leased the building on the southeast corner of Eleventh street and Broadway, as it has had so much success in its business that it needs more room. The lease of the parties who occupy the place does not expire until February but it is hoped by the Security Bank and Trust Company that it will be able to take possession before that time. The bank will retain the lease of the place it now occupies at least until it takes possession of the other quarters.

NO AGREEMENT IN NEBRASKA.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 18.—Conference between friends of candidates for State office lasted through the night, but no agreements were reached and on every thing—save Governor, treasurer and attorney-general, the Republicans of Nebraska went into the State convention at 2 o'clock today without a final probable results. The most vigorous contest was over the office of secretary of State. The audience of the convention was more than a thousand delegates when Chairman Haldrup called the convention to order.

MARTINDALE DEAD.

Martindale, a pioneer minister of Henry County, Ind., and will be interred at New Castle. In 1859 he was admitted to the bar and in 1861 he was admitted to the bar in New York. He served two terms as State Attorney of Indiana. He came to New York in 1868.

DEMOCRATS CARRY DENVER.

ON FACE OF RETURNS SPEER'S MAJORITY OVER SPRINGER WILL BE 3,000.

DENVER, May 18.—On the face of the returns, which are still far from being complete at 8 o'clock today, the entire Democratic ticket has been elected in this city. Robert W. Speer's majority over John W. Springer, Republican, for Mayor, will probably be over 3,000. County Judge Ben R. Lindsey has the honor of polling the largest number of votes, his name having been on all the tickets save one. The Board of Supervisors is solidly Democratic and Democrats will have nine or ten of the sixteen aldermen. Out of 70,000 names on the registration books more than 55,000 were voted. Republican leaders propose to contest the result of the election in the courts. It is asserted that over 2000 registered voters were disfranchised through having had their names purposely omitted from the lists and that thousands of votes were cast by fake names. Ballot box stuffing was not so prevalent, it is admitted, as at previous elections. As the Supreme Court has the election under its jurisdiction and will receive a report regarding the conduct of the election commission and those under it tomorrow, the action of that tribunal will determine the first steps to be taken in the courts regarding the election. The voters approved a bond issue of $400,000 to build an auditorium and other bond issues to refund the outstanding bonds and pay the floating debt. Under the new charter the city officers elected now are to serve four years.

TO WORK FOR COUNTY'S GOOD.

The Alameda County Advancement Association will meet tonight in the rooms of the Oakland Board of Trade at 8 o'clock. It is expected that at this meeting permanent officers will be elected and other matters of importance will be brought up. This association is composed of the young business and professional men of Alameda county and its purpose is to further in every possible manner the interests of the county.

REPUBLICANS IN WISCONSIN.

FEELING RUNS HIGH AND THE QUESTION OF "BOLT" IS AGITATED.

MADISON, Wis., May 18.—Factional feeling between the different factions prior to the opening of the Republican State convention here was keyed up to a great height. The question, "Will there be a bolt of the anti-third termers?" was asked on every hand and remained unanswered in any definite way. Such a state of affairs never before existed in Wisconsin. The key to the situation was apparently held by former Congressman Samuel A. Cook, candidate for governor, who had 126 delegates pledged to his support. The State central committee, which finally the name as the last ballot yesterday, followed the lead of the anti-third termers' column by 22 delegates. The committee was in session again today and it was said there was no question that Gov. La Follette would have a majority of the delegates.

IN YATES AGAIN IN THE LEAD.

RECOVERS A LARGE NUMBER OF THE VOTES LOST YESTERDAY.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 18.—Restlessness was on the increase today among the delegates to the Republican State convention. In the rank and file there was a growing inclination for a recess of thirty days, but so far as known none of the candidates was favorable to such a course. Appearances indicated that the breaking of the deadlock would be an agreement between candidates. All night Governor Yates and his campaign manager, Mr. J. W. Wright, conferred alternately with the Democrats and the anti-third termers. No one of the candidates seemed willing to enter a combination which would eliminate himself. The thirty-day recess was suggested yesterday. Yates, 133; Lowden, 29; Denson, 42; Hamilton, 112; Warner, 36; Sherman, 2; Pierce, 30. After two more ballots, taken without material change, the convention took a recess to 3 p. m. Fifteen minutes before the opening of the convention today the Lowden delegates from Northern Illinois formed a procession and marched into the hall, led by a band. Each carried a big placard with the name of "Yates" on it. This demonstration was for the purpose of offsetting a story that Lowden was about to withdraw from the race. On the 30th ballot there was an outburst of applause when Adams county voted "twenty votes still for Yates."

NO REST FOR PROF. DELMAR

The Man Who Reads the Lives of People is Busy Day and Night.

His Wonderful Power

He Dismay Those Who Call Upon Him—Brings Comfort to Many Hearts and Sorrow to Others.

The fame of the celebrated Prof. Alexander Delmar, palmist, astrologer and psychic life reader, seems to have permeated to every nook, cranny and corner of the city, and so great has been the interest created that the man is being kept busy as the proverbial nail from early morning to a late hour of the night. This is an unusual thing in Oakland, but Prof. Delmar is an unusual man. It is not often that such a man is found among us, and the fact that he is beloved with crowds of people is evidence that the genuine will win in any avocation of human life. Prof. Delmar is the source of ecstatic joy to some hearts, and sorrow just as keen to others. He insists on telling the truth to all callers, not comforting some by honeyed assurances and others by glittering tales of fortunes in store for them. But to such and all he carries the conviction of honesty and straightforwardness not often found in this fickle world, likewise his ability to perform all he promises to perform. Indeed he takes no money from any individual expressing the slightest dissatisfaction, and therein lies his strength. It is in earnest of his purpose to fly from every shadow of humbug and not to deceive any of those who have placed confidence in his word.

It is a matter of history from the early ages to the present time, that some few people are possessed of peculiar powers of divination or second sight, that enable them to foretell coming events, or reveal the mysteries of the past and future.

Prof. Delmar's remarkable demonstrations in that line seem almost to eclipse the feats of the prophets of medieval times.

Strange things happen in his apartments in the Eva Building, 525 Thirteenth street. The gentleman peers into the future with the same facility that the ordinary mortal looks out upon the sunlight. There is apparently nothing a secret from him, whether it be the affairs of business, those of the heart or of domestic life.

Why, he seems to read your very thoughts, and he speaks of your affairs as if he had always known you; and he tells you things that you positively know he had no earthly means of knowing.

It is beyond the powers of this writer of this article to explain how this man of mystery performs these remarkable feats of second sight, clairvoyance or whatever you may wish to call it, but they are of such a nature as to convince the most skeptical of his ability to actually peer into the mysteries beyond.

Prof. Delmar is a man of a distinguished personality, educated, refined, an enthusiastic lover and student of nature, art, music and human sciences. He is also an extensive traveler, speaking four languages fluently. He has been very successful and accomplished much good in life science he professes. He makes plenty of money everywhere he goes, as well as many warm friends, which fact he seems to prize more than his financial successes.

Prof. Delmar has been actively before the public for twenty years, with the exception of two years spent in occult research in India. In spite of the fact that his work is very hard and a great strain on his nervous system he seems to enjoy good health and looks at least ten years younger than his age. When asked how he accounted for his youthful appearance he replied in all sincerity that in his system of psychic culture he had discovered the secret of perpetual youth.

Unlike the ordinary fortune teller, self-styled palmist or medium, Prof. Delmar does not lay claim to extraordinary supernatural powers and modestly disclaims any distinction for the extraordinary feats he performs; he explained that the seemingly supernatural results he performs are but the result of his thorough knowledge of palmistry and a high degree of development of the psychic or soul forces of nature. He furthermore says that this force is inherent in all human beings, particularly in those of a highly sensitive nervous organism, and only needs to be properly developed to produce practical results.

Prof. Delmar claims that by his method of higher self-culture any one can retain the vigor of youth and enjoy the fullness of life to the hundred-year mark, which he considers the natural span of life.

One cannot spend a half-hour more entertainingly or more profitably than in an interview with Prof. Delmar, a true and sincere exponent of the occult sciences.

DEATH STOPPED WEDDING.

Dr. Whitfield Passes Away on the Eve of Wedding.

A romance which promised to culminate in the marriage of Miss Alice Atwood of 587 Merriman street and Dr. Whitfield has terminated sadly with the sudden death of the young groom-elect in Los Angeles. A few weeks ago the pretty bride and groom were in the scene of busy preparation for the coming wedding and gifts and good wishes poured in upon the young bride-to-be. The marriage was to take place at the home and the relatives and young friends of Miss Atwood were bidden to the ceremony when the telegram came to E. N. Atwood, the father of the young bride, telling the sad news of Dr. Whitfield's death just three days before the date set for his marriage to Miss Atwood's daughter.

Early that day Miss Atwood had received a letter from her fiancé intimating that he was not feeling as well as usual, but full of hope and promises to be in this city the next day. Following close on the wake of that hopeful message came the sad tidings of death, and after the first shock of grief, Mr. Atwood and his daughter left for Los Angeles to attend the funeral.

Dr. Whitfield was a bright and promising young physician whose home was in England, but who had traveled extensively on this continent. During his visit here he met and wooed the American girl who was to accompany him to his home as his bride.

Dr. Whitfield had been an interested tourist in the southern part of California and at the time of his death was visiting Monrovia, the pretty suburb of Los Angeles. The young physician's mother is in England and the news will come as a heavy grief to her. She was expecting her son with his young bride. Miss Atwood is now in Los Angeles and seems overcome with the sad calamity which has befallen her. Fans are in progress, however, for her to accompany her father to the East and it is hoped that travel and change of scene will lessen the great grief which has clouded her life.

RILEY AGAIN SOBS IN COURT.

EX-POLICEMAN SAYS HIS WIFE HAS FORGIVEN HIM.

Edward J. Riley, the former policeman of San Francisco who made a frenzied effort to burn his wife alive two weeks ago, again made a tearful appeal to Police Judge Smith this morning to release him. He is charged with a felony and the prospect of spending a portion of his earthly journey in San Quentin strikes terror to his soul. He stated this morning that his wife thought that he had been sufficiently punished already by his term of two weeks in the City Prison and that she desired his release.

"This is one case," said Prosecuting Attorney Leach, "that a wife cannot square." "You are charged with a felony," said Judge Smith. "There is nothing for you to do but to have your preliminary examination to see if there is sufficient evidence to hold you for trial in the Superior Court." The ex-policeman sobbingly took his seat and submitted to the inevitable. Riley, in a moment of drunken madness, poured coal oil over his wife and tried to set fire to her. She says that she is willing to forgive him because she needs support for both herself and two small children. As the case is an aggravated one it is probable that she will be deprived of the company of her husband for some time to come.

BANQUET HELD BY NATIVE SONS.

SENATOR KNOWLAND IS TENDERED RECEPTION BY HALCYON PARLOR.

An elaborate banquet was tendered State Senator Knowland last night by Halcyon parlor of the Native Sons of the Golden West at Woodmen Hall in Alameda. The affair was a huge success and will live long in the memory of those who attended.

The banquet itself was an artistic affair and was gotten up with the design to please the epicurean taste of the assembled native sons. In this respect the menu was eminently successful. Plates were laid for 100 and ample justice was done to the good things by those occupying the chairs.

The banquet was in the nature of a testimonial to Joseph R. Knowland as chairman of the board of grand trustees of the State, to which position he was recently elected at the convention at Vallejo.

Clem Bates acted as the toastmaster. The speakers of the evening were First Vice President Gallagher, Grand Trustee Devoto, Grand Secretary Turner, Beach Dean of Athens Parlor, J. J. McElroy of Piedmont Parlor and others. Letters of regret were sent by Grand President McLaughlin, Grand Past President Louis Evington and Grand Treasurer McDowell.

The banquet was kept up until a late hour in the evening.

SCHOOLS WERE CLOSED ALL DAY.

The schools of the city were closed today by order of City Superintendent McClintock to permit the school teachers and the pupils to attend the commencement exercises at Berkeley. The schools will re-open tomorrow.

WILL ENFORCE THE GARBAGE ORDINANCE.

The statement is made that Mayor Olney will enforce the garbage ordinance and again order the arrest of all the scavengers.

MAY BE BATTLE IN THE AIR.

Japs and Russians May Fight With Balloons.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 18, 2:30 p. m.—The admiralty today received an official dispatch from Rear-Admiral Witteost, believed to have been dated from Port Arthur, May 14, reporting that there had been no fighting since the telegraph line was cut, the Japanese ships not having attacked. Everything was well with the Russian squadron. The dispatch was gratifying to the authorities, not only for the news it contained, but because its receipt established the fact that while the telegraph line is severed, a system of communication by means of Chinese runners has been inaugurated. In order to deliver the Liao Yang dispatch entrusted to him, the runner had to pass through the Japanese lines already thrown around the narrow neck of the peninsula just above Port Arthur for the purpose of cutting off all communication between Gen. Kuropatkin and the fortress. The passage of the runner was dangerous, but the task was light compared to what it will be when the Japanese forces closely invest Port Arthur.

One of the reasons for the desperate effort of the Russians to get to Port Arthur what is officially called "ammunition train" has been revealed by information which leaked out today. There was little need, it appears, for more ammunition, great quantities being stored in the fortress, but General Stoessel is exceedingly anxious to be provided with balloons. The highest point of the fortress is the Eagle's Nest, from which much of the surrounding country can be seen, but balloons will facilitate observation. Before the war the Russian army had equipped for Manchuria, but it was captured by the Japanese, who will probably use it in their operations against Port Arthur. Recognizing the need of providing Gen. Stoessel with all the requisite instruments with which to conduct the defense of Port Arthur, Gen. Kuropatkin is believed to have sent balloons on "the ammunition train." The Russian balloons are stationary.

If the Japanese try to drift balloons over Port Arthur and drop explosives on the fortress, said an official, said today, the world will hear of the first battle in the air.

WIFE FEARS FOUL PLAY.

SAMUEL ADAMS GETS PAID WAGES AND THEN DROPS FROM SIGHT.

Samuel Adams, an employee of the Southern Pacific Company was paid off yesterday and since that has not been seen at his home, 100 Miles street. His wife is much worried and fears that her husband has met with foul play. She told Chief of Police Hodgkins this morning that her husband was not a drinking man and that he had never before remained away from home after receiving his pay. She insists that something out of the usual order has occurred and asks the police to help find what became of her husband.

SAMUEL ADAMS FOUND. Samuel Adams of West Oakland who was reported missing has been found at Martinez. He says he must have been doped.

REPUBLICANS OF SACRAMENTO.

It seems to be generally conceded that there will be no change over the delegates-at-large to the National convention, which meets at Chicago and where they will be supported by George H. Bardey, G. A. Knight, Judge J. W. McKinlay and John D. Spreckels. The fight in the First Congressional District between E. C. Voorhis and Charles Clinch has been smoothed over, and Voorhis has stepped down and out. The other delegate will be John Bull of Eureka, Humboldt county. In the Second District the delegates will be Joseph Stevens of this city and W. P. Hammond of Oroville. In the Third District G. W. Reed of Alameda and V. L. Crooks of Solano were elected last Saturday. In the Fourth District J. E. McDonald and M. A. Gust of San Francisco. In the Fifth District G. H. Rippy of San Francisco and Mitchell Phillips of San Jose. In the Sixth District P. H. Short and J. C. Needham. The latter has announced that he does not particularly desire the honor and will step aside for any one else who may come forward, and there is talk of C. F. Lack of Monterey or J. G. Roberts of Madera. In the Seventh District J. Norton and O. Lawler. In the Eighth District D. F. Hunt of Santa Barbara and E. Roberts of San Bernardino.

BODY OF SUICIDE IN THE PARK.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The dead body of Paul Francke who formerly kept a small confectionery store on Mission street, was found today in Golden Gate park. He had committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. Mental trouble is the supposed cause.

JOHN J. BARRETT.

HEARST'S GREAT TRIUMPH AT SANTA CRUZ.

Strong Leadership and John Barrett's Splendid Eloquence Carried the Day Handsomely for Instructions.

William Randolph Hearst scored a distinct personal triumph in the Santa Cruz Convention. It was no qualified victory, but a complete rout for his opponents, who had the organization and the platform committee.

Not only did the Convention instruct positively for Hearst, but it elected a delegation composed of Hearst men exclusively.

The solid twenty votes of California are his in feeling as well as by pledge and instruction.

So the men who managed the Hearst fight, gained the full measure of what they fought for. They would make no concession, nor abate a jot less than unqualified instruction and delegates known to be loyal to their leader. They were offered an endorsement for Hearst and the delegates from all but two districts, but they insisted upon all the delegates under positive instructions from the Convention.

They got all they asked, notwithstanding unexpected defections from delegates elected with the understanding that they were for Hearst. A considerable number of Hearst men voted against the resolution to instruct because they did not think it good policy to send a fettered delegation at this time. Fully two thirds of the delegates were for Hearst, but the fight was cunningly shifted to the question of instructing instead of endorsing. The delegates would have been Hearst's in any event.

But, Hearst's friends stood pat and won out handsomely, but in doing so had to fight Hearst's enemies and fully a hundred of his friends. It was a unique contest, and winning it was a fine piece of political generalship. The vote on the chairmanship revealed where Hearst's supporters had been.

Adulteration goes full length in spices and flavoring extracts—you think it isn't worth while to cheat in such trifles—four-fifths of "vanilla" is tonka; cost's one or two cents for "$1-worth". Schilling's Best are entirely pure; at your grocer's.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

ford, member of the State Board of Equalization were the chief spokesmen for the minority report.

Mr. Barrett especially distinguished himself. Seldom is a speech of such convincing power yet so polished and adroit heard in a political convention. It was a powerful bit of oratory. It thrilled and exhilarated the Hearst men and set the opposition in a panic.

It turned the sentiment so strongly in favor of the minority resolution that Lane and Geary tried to stem it in vain. Hearst's victory was largely due to Barrett's eloquence.

When Barrett closed the Hearst men hugged him for joy. They called him the "Bourke Cockran of California" and successor to Steve White. Indeed Barrett's speech was a reminder of the forensic giants of the past. It was as effective as General Clinch's famous speech nominating Washington Bartlett for Governor. It was equal to the best speeches of Jim Coffroth and Wirt Pendegast.

Mr. Barrett has many claims to favorable consideration when he gets up to speak. He is young and a "good looker," with full, rich voice, carrying a mellow note bequeathed to him by his Irish ancestors. His manners are elegant, his gestures graceful and his poses easy. He speaks fluently from a large vocabulary and there are musical cadences in his voice. He undoubtedly made the hit of the convention, easily taking the honors from the veteran speakers.

THINK NELSON A HARD GAME.

SPORTS SAYS CANOLE WILL HAVE HIS HANDS FULL IN "BATTLING" BATTLE.

Battling Nelson is in great condition for his twenty-round contest with Martin Canole, which takes place at Woodward's Pavilion Friday night. The Chicago fighter is at weight and he looks the picture of good health, and his manager, Teddy Murphy, thinks there is nothing to the contest but Nelson. Murphy compares the respective ring records of the two men whenever he is called upon to give his opinion as to why he thinks Nelson will win and he never fails to satisfy his listeners that his boy is the real goods.

The victory Nelson has over Jack O'Neill has given him a wonderful fighter. It will be remembered that only a few weeks ago Eddie Hanlon met this same O'Neill in Philadelphia and the accounts of the fight showed very plainly that he had all the best of Hanlon in the first four rounds, while Eddie had the share in the last two, and had a decision been given it is said O'Neill would have been given the verdict. O'Neill is now the fellow who can beat O'Neill must be able to come out at Milwaukee and Battling gave the Philadelphia the worst sort of a licking. He had him bleeding and hanging on and he was barely able to finish the last round without being knocked out. This contest took place on a short time ago and it created the impression in the East that Nelson was fast coming to a point where he would be a contender for the best light-weight in the business, and it was only a short time after this battle that Joe Gans passed up a meeting with Nelson, stating that he was too tough a game to take a chance with without being in the proper condition for a hard fight.

If Gans would consider Nelson a hard proposition and refuse to accept a match with him unless he had an unusually long time in which to train, something he never insisted upon before with other fighters, it is only reasonable to think that Martin Canole will have anything but an easy time of it when he faces Nelson Friday night.

Canole is perhaps one of the best-liked fighters that has ever visited this city and he will have plenty of rooters in the audience. The Fall River boxer has worked himself into good condition and he says he will be pleased to meet him in a return match if he is successful with Nelson. Canole will be backed heavily to win by his Eastern friends who are in the city. It is thought Canole will rule a slight favorite in the betting, but considering the past nervousness of the business, there should be but little difference in the choice of the two as far as the betting is concerned.

Jim Hayward, the New York light-weight, who meets Henry Lewis in a ten-round preliminary, is touted as a good man and it is thought he will beat Lewis. The other preliminary is a ten-round affair between Frank Raphael and George Herbert.

NEW YORK, May 18.—A dispatch to the Herald from Buenos Ayres says the Argentine Minister of Foreign Affairs is drafting a commercial convention with Brazil including all Argentine articles.

A WEST OAKLAND CLUB'S CARD.

HAVE PREPARED GOOD TICKET FOR TUESDAY NIGHT'S AMATEUR SHOW.

The West Oakland Athletic Club has prepared a good card for the boxing exhibition to be pulled off next Tuesday night. Six four-round contests have been arranged. The evening is gentlemen's night.

The club's matchmaker has used his best endeavors to get clever amateurs to take part in the goes. Every show the West Oakland Club has put on has been successful and the last boxing night held drew a good crowd, and some hot contests were seen. There will be four bouts between local boxers and two from San Francisco. All the contestants are training hard and by Tuesday night will be in good condition.

The boxers who will take part in the exhibition are clever amateurs. The card is as follows: Percy Gordon (Alameda) vs. Joe Cuddy (West Oakland Athletic Club), Young Ganley (Oakland) vs. Joe Enos (West Oakland Athletic Club), Ed Carmichael (Oakland) vs. Joe Kennedy (Oakland Athletic Club), Jimmie Owen (Bay City) vs. Oscar Buckley (Hayes Valley), Billy Shaper (Hayes Valley) vs. Joe Hippley (Bay City).

The main event will be between George Root of the Reliance Club and Fred Lana of Oakland. Young McConnell is getting Root into shape, while George Brown is attending to Lana's training.

The card is a first rate one and this popular sport is fast increasing in interest.

NEW CARS FOR TRANSIT LINE.

New cars for the Haywards electric line have arrived in this city and it is believed that the reconstruction of the road will now be pushed rapidly forward.

The new cars are of the broad gauge pattern while the tracks of the Haywards line are narrow gauge and until the change can be made the new cars will be operated on the line inside the city. Brighter cars have been ordered, in all, but only six of them have arrived and are now at the Sixteenth street depot.

With the exception of the Key Route cars the new equipment for the Haywards line is the handsomest yet seen in this city. The new cars are forty-five feet long and will seat fifty-two passengers. They are completely enclosed, having no outside seats, and in general appearance resemble the cars recently put in service between San Francisco and San Mateo. For the present the new cars will be equipped with motors of 140 horse power, giving them a speed of something over thirty miles an hour, and until the Haywards line is ready for them they will probably be used on the various lines radiating from Broadway.

The cars within are finished in handsome Eastern ash with open cross seats of rattan and wide aisles and the ends are vestibuled, the platforms being unusually roomy to permit the rapid ingress and egress of passengers, thus preventing delays at terminals and intermediate points. The cars will be equipped with air brakes and are headlights.

COMMENCEMENT AT MILLS COLLEGE.

The sweet girl graduate will have her day at Mills College Thursday, when, as a reward for their industry, a large class will be presented with diplomas. The week has been one of breaking up the national summer camp among the hills and soon the pupils will be scattered over the State.

The commencement exercises will begin at 2:30 o'clock and honors will be conferred upon the following: Bachelor of Science—Ethelwynne Potter Gardner, Mary Alexander, Clara Gertrude Stuart Holmes, Helen Dorrance, Anna Isabelle, Frances.

Seminary class—Katherine Margaret Brown, Helen Bishop, Violet Claire Brown, Anita Boone, Anna Ruth Manger, Edna Beroland, Evelyn, Belle Spencer, Stanford, Hazel Hill, Gladys May Perry, Lillian Ruth Cook, Alva Marian Malhart, Ethel Lorraine Kahn, Mildred Blake, Helen Hadley, Winifred Margaret Combe, Helen Horne, Burgess Merrill, Flournoy, Edna Bernice, Rita Worthing, Margaretta Cluff, Carrie Belle McKay.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO CHANGE LINE.

The narrow gauge line between Oakland and San Jose will be changed to a broad gauge. The Southern Pacific Company has employed engineers and surveyors, who are making estimates for the rebuilding of the shops at Newark. Since the destruction of the Alameda motor house last year the company has not had enough cars to accommodate excursion trains on this side of the bay. This is the reason that they contemplate changing the line into a broad gauge.

The work in the shops is expected to begin very soon and the road work will be completed as soon thereafter as possible.

PORTLAND GAME POSTPONED.

The game between Portland and San Francisco at Portland was postponed yesterday on account of rain.

DR. O'MERA MAY TAKE A WIFE.

RUMOR OF ENGAGEMENT OF POPULAR DIVINE AND MISS ALICE NEWHALL.

Dr. O'Mera, one of the most distinguished local divines, sailed for Europe last week on the English Liner, Bohemian bound for Liverpool. Dr. O'Mera is well known in church circles and has a large following. His influence is strongly felt in every branch of life with which he associates himself.

Dr. O'Mera was for some time rector of St. Andrew's Church in West Oakland. Recently he was transferred to Trinity Church in San Francisco.

Recently Dr. O'Mera received a large legacy from his family. He is now on a leave of absence and will make an extended tour on the continent visiting the Holy Land and other points of historical interest pertaining to both church and state.

There has been a persistent rumor that Dr. O'Mera was soon to take a wife. The rumor was strengthened from the fact that on the same boat with Dr. O'Mera was the lady whose name was connected with his, the beautiful Miss Alice Newhall. No announcement was made of an engagement existing between the two popular people before the departure for Europe. It is expected that news announcing Miss Newhall's engagement will soon come from Paris whither Mrs. Newhall and her daughters are bound.

Miss Newhall is a charming young lady and is eighteen years of age. Dr. O'Mera has been paying court to Miss Newhall for some time. Miss Newhall is the niece of Mayo and George Newhall and the cousin of the charming debutante of last winter, Miss Margaret Newhall.

The announcement of an engagement must meet with the greatest satisfaction among the hosts of friends possessed by both.

EXPLAINS EDIT.

BOSTON, May 18.—Mary Baker G. Eddy, pastor emerita of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, who framed the recent by-law on organizations adopted by the church, has given to the Christian Science journal the following explanation of this by-law:

"I beg to inform my beloved members of the mother church that the by-law in article XXVI of its manual, does not require members of benevolent and progressive organizations such as the Free Masons, Odd Fellows, temperance societies, and those of similar character, to resign their membership."

to resign this membership. It specifies in plain English the individuals who become members of our church shall not thereafter be made members of clubs or other organizations not named in its manual, and wherefor? Because our religious demonstration demands the faithful attention and labor of its members in all philanthropic, therapeutic and progress to Christian work for the human race and relies upon the adequate, scientific source and resource therefore."

"A little cocaine for Schaffly, Pete," some enthusiastic fan shouted from the bleachers when Oakland's second baseman was dreaming of the good old summer time or something else than baseball.

The game between Oakland and Los Angeles was one of looseness, kicks and snatches. It was a bad day for the crowd that usually attend the games as the holiday on Monday prevented many from getting off again yesterday.

A man named Jenness exercised all the ingenuity he possessed in all his balls, strikes and strikes, balls. He called Schaffly safe at the plate when he went across the rubber at least four feet behind the ball. It was a bad error and evident to all that the man was out.

There were two grandstand exhibitions, both occurring in the outfield. Theo Streib made a pretty one-hand catch, fell all over himself, but came up with the sphere in his hand. The crowd went up in the air. Then Canole in the right garden got an offer which he took after turning a handspike and he, too, received a set of "Oh, you, Ganley!" howls from the crowd.

"Dolly" Gray was in the box for the Angels and pitched a brilliant game. Although he gave seven hits to the Commuters to Moskiman's two he received great support and was steady at all times. He was a little wild in the sixth, but in this inning Oakland did nothing.

Schaffly made a pretty two-bagger in the fourth and showed that the cocaine administered had the desired effect. Buck Franks played his usual clever game. Ganley was at his best and had the form of the game and brought in two of Oakland's total of three runs.

"Doc" Moskiman found the location of the plate and twirled the ball in professional style. In other words the crowd yelled, "You're all right, Doc. Keep it up!"

Byrne caught a pretty game, made one base hit and planted a zero in the error column. "Old Reliable" Jool Streib at first was there with both feet and mind.

Ross for the Angels was a bright and shining light and in the sixth banged out a home run, bringing in two tallies for Los Angeles. Chase played a steady game at first. Smith at third umpired Jenness and after shaking him for a few minutes, was ordered out of the game. It looked like a scrap on account of the plate decision and Umpire Jenness had an excellent chance to pile up a record of fines. And then the game played on.

Los Angeles made two of the runs in the first and in the sixth added another pair. The Angels got two base hits and a total of four errors. Oakland managed to pull in one score in the first, another in the fourth and in the seventh made a hard attempt and sneaked in the last. The final score ended at 4 to 3 in favor of the Angels. ST. MARY'S COLLEGE ANNUAL BANQUET.

The annual banquet of the Athletic Association of the St. Mary's College will be held in the large dining room of the college. It promises to outlive the thirty-five preceding ones as the Athletic Association of this year has been unusually successful both on the cinder path and Grand.

This year the college nine defeated Berkeley and Stanford, and lowered the colors of more than sixty teams of mean repute. Ray Streib, the Phoenix first baseman, is at present with Pete Lohmann's pet and is delighting the fans who pay to see real baseball.

Perguson, the college twirler, has had offers both from San Francisco and Oakland, but was obliged to decline as he is desirous of completing his course at college.

The officers of the Athletic Association for this year are: William F. Fitzgerald, '05, president; William F. Hinkle, '05, vice-president; John J. Rooney, '05, secretary; Frank Ealey, '05, track manager; George Foutley, '05, treasurer.

"A little cocaine for Schaffly, Pete," some enthusiastic fan shouted from the bleachers when Oakland's second baseman was dreaming of the good old summer time or something else than baseball.

The game between Oakland and Los Angeles was one of looseness, kicks and snatches. It was a bad day for the crowd that usually attend the games as the holiday on Monday prevented many from getting off again yesterday.

A man named Jenness exercised all the ingenuity he possessed in all his balls, strikes and strikes, balls. He called Schaffly safe at the plate when he went across the rubber at least four feet behind the ball. It was a bad error and evident to all that the man was out.

There were two grandstand exhibitions, both occurring in the outfield. Theo Streib made a pretty one-hand catch, fell all over himself, but came up with the sphere in his hand. The crowd went up in the air. Then Canole in the right garden got an offer which he took after turning a handspike and he, too, received a set of "Oh, you, Ganley!" howls from the crowd.

"Dolly" Gray was in the box for the Angels and pitched a brilliant game. Although he gave seven hits to the Commuters to Moskiman's two he received great support and was steady at all times. He was a little wild in the sixth, but in this inning Oakland did nothing.

Schaffly made a pretty two-bagger in the fourth and showed that the cocaine administered had the desired effect. Buck Franks played his usual clever game. Ganley was at his best and had the form of the game and brought in two of Oakland's total of three runs.

"Doc" Moskiman found the location of the plate and twirled the ball in professional style. In other words the crowd yelled, "You're all right, Doc. Keep it up!"

Byrne caught a pretty game, made one base hit and planted a zero in the error column. "Old Reliable" Jool Streib at first was there with both feet and mind.

Ross for the Angels was a bright and shining light and in the sixth banged out a home run, bringing in two tallies for Los Angeles. Chase played a steady game at first. Smith at third umpired Jenness and after shaking him for a few minutes, was ordered out of the game. It looked like a scrap on account of the plate decision and Umpire Jenness had an excellent chance to pile up a record of fines. And then the game played on.

Los Angeles made two of the runs in the first and in the sixth added another pair. The Angels got two base hits and a total of four errors. Oakland managed to pull in one score in the first, another in the fourth and in the seventh made a hard attempt and sneaked in the last. The final score ended at 4 to 3 in favor of the Angels. NEWS OF THE UNIONS.

GENERAL ITEMS OF HAPPENINGS IN THE RANKS OF LABOR

The Building Trades' Council met last evening and transacted routine business.

The report of the Labor Day picnic committee was endorsed by the Council and the full committee will attend the meeting next Saturday at 927 Mission street, San Francisco.

THE CO-OPERATIVE MARKET.
From statements made by Secretary Richardson of the California Co-operative Meat Company, arrangements have been completed for cold storage facilities, which will be ample for their use.

He also stated that there were at all times three sources of meat supply available—two in this State and one in Oregon.

Nearly every union in the city has subscribed for a share of stock in the market at the price of $10 per share, and other subscriptions are coming in with reasonable rapidity so the managers consider themselves quite fortunate.

The subscriptions from the unions are from the organization and in no way affect the individual unionist. The location of the market has not yet been definitely decided upon though several eligible points are under consideration and the matter will no doubt be arranged in the course of a few days.

Mr. Richardson says that while they are not aware of just what attitude will be taken by those who are in opposition, they are not worrying particularly over the matter. As the market is to be a workman's market in every sense of the word, the support of the workmen is expected and counted upon. It is further stated that there is no intention of cutting prices although it is proposed to meet prices.

UNION MEN DESIRED.
In the course of a conversation recently T. G. Jones, business agent of the Master Builders' Association stated as follows: "We want union men; in fact, we can't get enough union men. Oakland is making progress such as was never made before and the trades unions in Oakland are stronger than ever before. This shows that unionism is not destructive and does not hinder development. It is the industrial war that puts a quietus on the growth of a community."

Mr. Jones further stated that there was no truth in the assertion frequently heard to the effect that there would be a clash over the policy of the "open shop" between the Master Builders' Association and unions that are concerned in the building industry. The association, he asserts, has no desire for trouble with any unions. It counts the union men as its best mechanics and could not get along very well without them. According to the business agent's words, the "open shop" policy is all bosh, so far as the association is concerned.

The following figures relating to the condition of the organization were furnished by Mr. Jones. There are sixty-five members in the association—about twenty-five responsible contractors. In April the members of the organization signed up for work, which was recorded to the amount of $157,223.

Outside in the county, signed up during the month of April, $77,100. Jobs not recorded for the month of April approximate $20,000.

"These figures," said Mr. Jones, "are enough to show that, with the organization behind them, the contractors are in a position to handle the building industry, there will be no such fight."

THE LIBERTY.

James Neill has hit a happy combination this week at the Liberty with that stirring play, "A Gentleman of France." It is the first play of the romantic costume period that has been given in Oakland and it is destined to be the record play of the engagement. It has received a splendid send-off and has charmed two audiences that for enthusiasm have seldom been equaled in Oakland. Last night's audience burst into cheers and had to have eight and nine curtain calls before their enthusiasm was satisfied.

"A Gentleman of France" is a play that few companies could present without appearing ridiculous but in the hands of Mr. Neill's clever people it rises to the dignity of an all-star performance. Every member appears to good advantage. Mr. Neill in the title role could not be improved upon while Miss Chapman as Mlle. de la Vire, the capricious heroine is thoroughly delightful and winsome. Miss Chapman will long be remembered in Oakland for her magnificent performances of every part in which she has appeared. The other members of the company are all good.

The matinee next Saturday is attracting much attention. A photograph of Donald Bowles, the clever juvenile actor of the company is to be given to every lady in the house and already the advance sale is large indicating that Mrs. Bowles has a large number of admirers in the fair sex. "A Gentleman of France" will run for the entire week.

The bill for next week is to be "Nancy and Co." that clever eccentric comedy adapted by Augustin Daly from the French. It is a companion piece to "The Lottery of Love" and is even better and funnier than that play.

"THE OCTORON."
Last night at the Macdough Theatre the Stevens Stock Company presented the "Octoroon" to a large audience who were pleased with the manner in which that celebrated play was produced. The company was well cast, each member playing his or her part with a sincerity and skill that showed a thorough understanding of the character. This was particularly true of Landers Stevens as Wahnetee, the Indian, Max Steinberg as Sam Scudder, Phil Walsh as Jacob McClosky and Miss Georgie Cooper as Zo, the Octoroon.

The many familiar scenes were truthfully presented by the men and there was a conspicuous absence of the hesitancy and long waits usually so pronounced in first night presentations by most stock companies. It is here that Mr. Stevens shows his master hand as a manager and his ability to get the most out of his fellow players is probably due to his magnetic personality. He is a hard worker himself and expects every member of his company to work as hard as he does, which they cheerfully do.
As the Indian, Mr. Stevens presented all of the moods and fancies which are always associated with the first American in an easy, graceful style. He was particularly strong in the later scenes. Miss Cooper made a clever Zo and was splendid throughout. Max Steinberg as Sam Scudder was at his very best and nothing better could be said of him. He played the part with great feeling and thoroughness.
The scenery was new and cleverly constructed.
The initial performance was a signal success and presages large houses all week for the Octoroon at the 20c and 30c. The play will be repeated every night including Sunday with a bargain matinee on Saturday. Children 10c.

JAPANESE OFFICERS SHOT AT HARBIN.
ST. PETERSBURG, May 18.—Details have been received here from Harbin regarding the execution April 21 of two Japanese officers, Yukio and Oki, for attempting to dynamite bridges and destroy telegraph communication on the Eastern Chinese Railroad.

The prisoners admitted that they were part of a detail numbering 100 men whose purpose it was to destroy the railroad at various points. When told that they must have been extremely brave people, they replied: "Not at all; we were only carrying out our duty and the order of the Mikado."
Both prisoners were executed April 21 between the new and old towns of Harbin in the presence of a large crowd. They were shot in the head of being hanged, upon order of General Kurapatkin. A strong guard was thrown about the spot to hold back the public at a distance of 400 yards. Photographs were allowed to be taken.
The younger prisoner refused to allow the bandaging of his eyes. When told it was necessary according to Russian law he asked that an exception be made in his favor. The older Japanese, a staff officer, wept and fainted, but finally allowed himself to be bandaged calmly. One of the men was a Catholic and made his final confession to a Russian priest there being no representative of the Catholic priesthood in Harbin.

IN THE SPRING
A YOUNG MAN'S FANCY
LIGHTLY TURNS TO THOUGHTS OF LOVE.

A fresh young face—like a rose in Spring— attracts everyone. Girls grow up like flowers, and if weeds do not choke their young life and beauty (by which we mean disease of the womanly organs), they blossom out into beautiful womanhood. The pains and drains of young womanhood often bring the pallid cheek, the sunken eyes, crow's feet, backache, and exhausted nerves, which tell of peevish temper, and irritable thoughts. Such symptoms are all swept away—like sunshine after shadow—with the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is Nature's tonic for the womanly system; made entirely from plants and roots, without the use of a particle of alcohol or narcotic, and designed for the single purpose of curing woman's ills. There is nothing that will produce wrinkles and bad complexion so surely as displacements of the organs essentially feminine. When pains and aches rack the womanly system at frequent intervals, take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will cure those ailments and stop the drains which are such a drag on the vitality of womanhood.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Protrusion, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure. If you are at a loss to know what is the matter with you, write Dr. Pierce, who will answer you in strict confidence; he is a physician and surgeon who has had a thorough medical training and a large experience in treating the diseases of women. Every woman, young or old, should know herself. To arrive at this knowledge secure a good doctor book, by addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. "The People's Common Sense Medical Advice" can be procured by sending twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or thirty-one stamps for a cloth-bound copy.

HER SON OBJECTS TO YOUNG MAN.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 18.—Eugene H. Hurd, a Yale senior, has been restrained by an injunction issued by Judge James Bishop from communicating with Mrs. Lavina H. Foy, 90 years old, either by letter, in person or in any other manner.

Hurd, whose home is in Wilton, Conn., is working his way through the University and has made his home at Mrs. Foy's. The latter, who has helped many poor students at Yale to gain an education, is wealthy and noted for her philanthropy.

The injunction was secured by her son and heir in conjunction with the trustees of the estate, who assert that Hurd has unduly influenced Mrs. Foy to give him large sums of money and has estranged her from her relatives.

TO SETTLE UP AFFAIRS.
NEW YORK, May 18.—Plans are reported to be under consideration for settling the affairs of the collapsed brokerage concern of W. E. Woodcock & Co. It is understood the creditors will be offered 25 per cent of their claims in cash and the balance in notes and securities. Dr. Woodcock estimates his firm's liabilities at $150,000.

WARNING TO BOYS.
PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—A Coroner's inquest upon the death of ten-year-old William Black, who on Sunday smoked his first cigarette has shown that he died in convulsions at a hospital after having been given an emetic which brought to light the stump of a cigarette.

The boy recovered consciousness shortly before he died and said he had swallowed it accidentally while attempting to smoke for the first time.

In bidding farewell to the Thirty-first Artillery which will leave in a few days for Manchuria, the Emperor presented the brigade in the name of the Empress and himself, an ikon of St. Nicholas.

Star-gazing and Actual Life

An eminent divine echoes Emerson's aphorism, "Hitch your wagon to a star," assuming that it is practicable to follow the advice. Emerson spoke figuratively, but he appealed to aspiration by an exhortation for ambition to strive for the highest. While it is in every man to do the best he can, the pinacles of success can only be achieved by the very few. It is inculcating a false philosophy and a baneful theory of life to teach otherwise. There are not stars enough for us all to hitch our wagons to. A great many have no wagons to speak of and only get passing glimpses of the stars—their environment obscures their vision, restricts their aspirations and cramps their energies. The stars are millions of miles above them—literally as well as figuratively. Telling such people to hitch their wagons to stars is like telling them to coin the sun's rays into money.

The mass of men must always be far apart from the stars. There would be no mountain peaks but for the low hills and valleys that intervene. It is so with men. There would be no great men if all could be equally great. A great and abiding philosophic truth is expressed in the verse of Genesis: "In the sweat of his face shall man earn his bread." Thousands must endure grinding poverty that one may be a millionaire—and of all those who sow amid the one that reaps there may be none within hailing distance of the stars. Even the poorest of the grubbers may have more of the aspiration that was in Emerson's mind than the one who is on the summit of what is usually esteemed success.

If all patriots were George Washingtons or William Tellsmen, the world would have no heroes. Because so few will endure martyrdom for faith, the world holds in reverence St. Stephen, St. Peter and St. Paul. If all men were millionaires there would be no one to black boots. The humble and the small have their uses as well as the large and the great, and it is useless to believe otherwise or teach that the existing order can be changed. Men are like the giants of the forest, only relatively large. As a rule, what passes for greatness—that is, success in some particular walk or line of endeavor—is the result of egotism, selfishness and energy combined. The stars have nothing to do with it.

Some men seem to hate Mr. Jeter for the friends he has made.

If Memorial Day can be prevented from being turned into a day of sports and picnics, there is hope that the Fourth of July may be rescued from a pandemonium of noise.

The flowers are now being watered that will decorate little Willie's grave after the Fourth of July.

Another Chicago University Professor has broken loose with the prediction that the triumph of Japan means the ultimate supremacy of the yellow race. The yellow race will not gain supremacy so long as John D. Rockefeller owns most of the earth.

When his name is mentioned in connection with the Vice-Presidency, Uncle Joe Cannon shivers. He remembers the hot roast he gave the Senate at the close of the last session and feels that he would be out of place presiding over a body whose rules he had denounced in such scathing terms.

Successful Test of Ballot Machines

For the first time in California an election of considerable magnitude has been held with ballot machines and the result is very satisfactory. At the municipal election in San Jose last Monday voting machines were used, and worked admirably, according to the reports of the local press. The voting was rapid and without the slightest hitch.

The vote was tabulated and the result announced in fifteen minutes after the polls closed. The Mercury says one precinct was counted and the returns made up in six minutes. Four minutes later the returns from another precinct came in and the other precincts two minutes afterward. Within thirty-five minutes after the polls closed the complete returns were in the Mercury office. This is a marvelous improvement over the old system.

In its account of the election the Mercury had this to say of balloting by machine:

"The voting machines greatly facilitated both the casting and counting of the ballots. The people had studied their working so carefully that there was but very little trouble experienced in their operation. The inspectors were assiduous in seeing that the voters manipulated them correctly and very few mistakes were made.

"The average time taken by voters to record their ballots was less than half a minute. Some of them got through in three or four seconds. Others were much slower, which gave rise to the impression that there would be a great deal of scratching shown by the result. That, however, did not prove to be the case. It was simply the difference of the handiness of individuals in working the machines."

This is apparently as satisfactory as the recent election in Milwaukee, in which ballot machines were used. The complete vote amounting to over 50,000 was announced on the bulletin boards an hour after the polls closed.

Dodging on the Tariff Question

The platform adopted by the Democrats at Santa Cruz is about as long and inconsistent as the party record. The tariff plank, for instance, is as finished a piece of wordy shuffling as one would wish to see. It is absolutely non-committal as to any principle governing tariff legislation. It does not declare for free trade—indeed, expressly disavows it—for a tariff for revenue only, nor for protection. By implication it declares in favor of a tariff for revenue with incidental protection, but it does not say so. It beats about the bush in a pitiful manner, showing the fear of offending the raisin, citrus fruit, wool, lumber and other interests of the State that benefit from the protective system. That this characterization may not be ascribed to partisanship the tariff plank is given herewith in full:

"The abolition of the tariff on the products of foreign countries is not contemplated by the Democratic party, nor is it possible so long as the tax on imports continues to be the principal source of the income of the government.

"The continuance of the rate of tariff, however, is neither necessary for the providing of revenue nor for the equalization of the difference between cost of production at home and abroad. It is unjustifiable, and its sole effect is to encourage the formation in the United States of trusts and monopolies in the production of all articles which are subject of such excessive and unnecessary tariff rates, with power to such trusts and monopolies to compel American consumers to pay for such articles at protected prices in excess of what is just and reasonable.

"The fact that many of the principal products of the United States, manufactured by trusts and monopolies and which are protected against competition by excessive and unnecessary taxes, are shipped to foreign markets and there sold at lower prices than prevail in the markets of the United States, justifies the Democratic party in demanding that the Dingley bill be promptly revised and that all unnecessary and excessive rates therein be reduced or abolished in the interests of the American consumer.

"Our domestic industries and enterprises should not and need not be endangered, nor their efficiency in any way impaired by such just reductions and questions of burdens of taxation.

"The Democratic party pledges itself to a careful and fair revision of existing tariffs, always making due allowance in the adjustment of rates for all differences in the cost of production between American and foreign producers by reason of the differences of the cost of labor to the respective producers and such other differences as arise out of the difference in the situation."

If this means anything at all, it means that the California Democrats are opposed to free trade and to protection, but are in favor of a tariff schedule that will discriminate in favor of home industries. That is protection; but the wordy jumble is so prolix and inane that it cannot be taken to express any definite policy. The plank is a plain attempt at a compromise between irreconcilable theories, the shifts and evasions being hidden in a cloud of verbiage.

Edward C. Wall, for whom the Wisconsin Democrats instructed their delegation, belongs to the Cleveland-Vilas wing of the party. He has been a managing politician for thirty years, and men of this class are never deemed available for the Presidency. It is inconceivable that he should be a candidate in good faith, for he could only command the machine following of his own party. In all probability he poses as a candidate merely to hold out the delegation for Parker or some other man of his stamp, as that was about the only way the delegation could be kept from Hearst.

Hints for the Ladies.

Mix common earth and water to the consistency of mud and apply to a wasp or bee sting.

It is said that a muskrat skin, worn with the fur side next to the lungs, will bring certain relief to asthma sufferers.

Don't rub the face with too coarse a towel. Treat it as you would the finest porcelain—tenderly and delicately.

In five minutes the average man would die for want of air; for want of water in a week for want of sleep in ten days.

A good remedy for blistered feet which results from long walking, is to rub the feet when going to bed with spirits mixed with tallow dropped from a lighted candle into the palm of the hand.

In Flemish lace little dollies and a centerpiece with an aldehyde scarf to match usually constitute a set for the table. The work is not so hard only somewhat tedious and is strong and durable and very handsome.

Dress yokes and stocks to wear with the fashionable round Dutch necks, cuffs and stock pieces, vest fronts for bodices and linings for smart jacket revers are all made in a Flemish lace by deft workers in the popular art.

Collars, cuffs and belt sets of cross-stitch are very smart, particularly with morning costumes, and any one can make these sets with very little trouble and also make bands to match with which to trim the shoulders and sleeves of the bodice, the front and the skirt.

It is the fad to make Flemish lace sets for the lunch table, or the sets are made in some other fashionable lace stitch. The renaissance sets that once were so popular are out of date and Flemish lace and Italian filet lace are the rage instead. The former is prettier than the latter which is more odd than beautiful.

Your child has an unfortunate habit of grazing his limbs and the sore places do not heal quickly. When next he breaks his skin let it be your task to break an egg. Within the empty shell you find a lining of membrane. With a little care you will be able to remove this and to lay it wet surface downward upon the sore place. Cover with linen and put on a bandage. The sore spot will heal quickly.

There is a perfect craze for fancy-work in Paris and London and the fancywork teachers are reaping a rich harvest. Here they give lessons from early in the morning till late at night, going out to rich patrons when not holding classes which every one may attend. Making dainty handmade articles from handkerchiefs is a vogue; cross-stitching bands for linen dresses and embroidering in the new and smart Mountmelik embroidery for dresses and house decorations are all the fad, to say nothing of other forms of fashionable fancy work.

Vinegar is fairly good for some forms of headache and as a stimulant in fainting; in each case it is to be employed outwardly. In headache it may be applied to the forehead; but in fainting it should be held against or brushed over the nostrils. If your child is suffering from excessive perspiration during the night you may apply vinegar to the skin. Should the skin be too sensitive, dilute the vinegar with an equal quantity of water. Let the skin remain wet for two or three minutes and then gently wipe it dry. Be careful to avoid much friction. A similar lotion will lessen the very distressing moisture of feet from which so many adults suffer.

Salt serves admirably when it is desired to apply either dry or moist heat for a considerable time. The virtue of an ordinary poultice is due to moist heat. Now, the great drawback to such a poultice is that it soon gets cold. If we place over it a bag of very hot, dry salt the poultice will retain its heat for hours, provided the part be well covered. A flannel bag will suffice. The salt should be heated on a plate placed in the oven or on a stove. More warmth will be quite useless; the heat should be too great for the hand to bear. Between the poultice and the salt bag a layer of flannel should be placed. Another way of using the salt bag is to let the fierce heat pass away, and to apply the bag, without any poultice, over a layer of flannel.

UNDER THE WILLOWS.

I love that dear old farmhouse and the swards that round it lay;
I love the apple orchard and the gray-blown ricks of hay;
The current bordered pathway fringing fragrant fields of wheat—
Aye, all the rustic pictures memory brings to me are sweet.
Even to the stunted hazels that I robbed each glowing fall;
But just beyond the culvert is the dearest spot of all;
There stand the gnarled old willows that I still distinctly see,
And sift, as then, the sunshine through their lacy tops for me.

MAKE MARRIAGE SECRET.

U. P. STUDENT WINS HEART AND HAND OF SEATTLE GIRL—PARENTS UNAWARE.

William Franklin Good, of Philadelphia and Edith Annabella Stewart of Seattle were married in the private office of the County Clerk by Justice of the Peace Quinn after hours last night, and thereby hangs a tale.

Good says he is a student of the University of Pennsylvania on a trip out to this coast and that his marriage is a secret. Miss Stewart comes from Seattle and her people are not yet aware that she has given her heart and hand to another.

They stated that they did not care much how the news gets out regarding their marriage but Good slipped a "V" to the clerk to keep it away from the papers for a time. They, however, were very happy and gave little thought of the morrow and aside from that effort at concealment there was little of the unusual in their short life of happiness.

duties outside. These may affect the amount of work she does, but not the quality. She may not be a brilliant student, but she is far above the average. So we must recognize the student side as the strongest.

"But true to the Greek standard, nothing too much. She has taken her share of fun, her share of the work in outside activities. This is the all-around college woman. Her education is mental, physical, social. She comes to college to develop a well-rounded character, not to be phenomenal in one respect, insignificant in another."

DR. GEORGE ASA HARKER.

"The Educational Character of Medical Study" was dwelt on by Dr. George A. Harker of the Affiliated Medical College, who said:

"The student who decides to take up the study of medicine finds himself entering a more or less unknown field. He knows that the degree which he is striving represents study and training in a number of branches of science and that it is his duty to follow it to the end. His attitude towards his work, therefore, differs from that of the student who is more at liberty to choose his course and who elects certain lines of study either because he believes them essential to a general education or because of the required work they have for him some particular end in view."

"The medical student realizes that his undergraduate work is the least part of his study, that he must be prepared to continue to a general education or because of the required work they have for him some particular end in view."

PRESIDENT WHEELER.

President Wheeler spoke as follows: "Members of the graduating classes of all the colleges of the University of California: You have come to this day by many paths. Hundreds of difficulties have been overcome. You have followed various courses of study; various subjects of human endeavor; various educational theories according to which the various courses are guaranteed to different minds run the whole gamut from the baldest practical to the vaguest ideal, and every one of you has won the laurel wreath of victory from the winning of bread to the winning of glory. You will be labeled today with various alphabetic combinations and will address yourselves forthwith to still more various pursuits. But with all the varieties of training in common to you all, you are all human beings with one life ahead of you."

"As my time is brief, and especially as the common factor counts for infinitely more than the factors of differentiation put together, I shall use this supreme moment to speak of nothing but the common factor: One life ahead of you."

"You have one life to use; how can you make it count for the most and best? That is the question which must be with you today; and if it is not, it is time to turn it over to your conscience. If I could, it would be of no use. Every man must make his own, and every man must find within himself the power to apply it. But I think I know some of the things which are essential to a general education or because of the required work they have for him some particular end in view."

There is no use waiting for big things to do. We do not even know for sure what the big things are. The widow who brought her two misters to the treasury there more than they all. request to remain "mum" about that episode. Living relatives of the deceased, who were present at the funeral, said they did not know of the episode. "Did you ever go to an entertainment with a woman named Bessie Peterson?" Witness hesitated and finally said: "I think I may have gone to a lecture with her sister, and she may have accompanied me home, but I am not sure."

CANNOT FORGET.

There was some desultory questioning at length Judge Ogden interrupted. "Do you feel that your husband has been such a reconciling couple that you could not go back to your husband if he would provide for you and promise to treat you kindly, and live happily with him again?"

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Mr. Puffer then asked a witness if he remembered an occasion when there was a lamp exploded on the roof of the home on California avenue and Mrs. Richards replied that she remembered the occasion. He was asked if there was not an amount of her good destroyed and replied that there was a spot burned on the carpet, a pair of curtains were destroyed and the veneering was burned off the machine.

AGENT CLIFTON.

Counsel for the defendant then interjected a Mr. Clifton into the case and sought to show a frequency of calls on Clifton's part at the home of Mrs. Richards during her husband's absence, which was likely to be misunderstood. Witness, however, declared that Clifton was an insurance man and had called on her only four times and then he came for the premium on her husband's life insurance, the premium on which had been advanced by Clifton. The calls in question had been made, witness declared, because she was unable to pay the premium owed. She had never, she said, met Clifton save in the presence of other people.

SCRUBBED THE FLOOR.

Counsel then got witness to admit that, at times, her husband scrubbed the floor, washed the clothes and did other jobs around the house. Mrs. Richards then moved to the home of Mrs. Wells on Perilla street, in this city, and counsel for the defendant asked a number of questions touching her relationship with one George D. Cotton, who, for a time, boarded at Mrs. Wells'. She admitted that she had, on one occasion, been escorted to the Wells' home by Mr. Cotton's mother's home. On one occasion also Cotton had remained with witness for forty minutes in her room and during that time, she declared, he was engaged in repairing a clock for her baby. She would often meet him by accident on the street, but had never gone to any entertainment with him. She denied that she had ever said to any of her lady acquaintances that she was impressed or greatly pleased with Cotton, or that he was attracted by herself.

CALIFORNIA CLASS HOLDS GRADUATION.

The graduation of the Academy class, with a full four years' course, occurred last evening (Tuesday) in the College Chapel. At an early hour the hall was filled by the numerous friends of the young people who were to appear on the program. The large hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the platform was set off in appearance by five beautiful young ladies in spotless white, and four bright young men in uniform. The black and white scene and the occasion was inspiring, and elicited hearty applause from the audience. The program was as follows: Music, Sonata, Op. 26, A. Flat Major (Beethoven); Miss Pearl Collins, oration, "Self Control True Freedom of the Mind"; Horace Glenn Johnson, oration, "The Influence of Euphrates Ancestry Upon Our Nation"; Alice Willbanks, oration, "The Search for a Man"; Creed Wilson, Gaiety, music, vocal solo (Selected); Miss Helen Brown, valedictory address by Dr. T. B. Brown.

RICHARD'S ADMIRATIONS.

Mr. Puffer then brought the family history down to the period when the courtship of the Richards family and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Peterson, the former of the latter couple occupied a position of honor at one time librarian of the Public Library of this city. The climax of his episode was the statement by the witness that her husband had admitted to her that he had been intimate with Mrs. Henry Peterson and had admitted the place of the liaison in San Francisco. This she followed up by declaring that Richards had admitted his intimacy with a number of other women.

PETERSON'S CHARGES.

"That night," continued the witness, "my husband came home and said that he was very angry and annoyed because he had got Bessie Peterson into a terrible scrape. It seems that Peterson had suspected for a long time that his wife was in love with my husband and I tried to assure him that she was not. The case I got out of bed at 12 o'clock and went to Mr. Peterson's house to try and convince him that there was nothing improper between his wife and my husband, and he told me that he had met his wife and my husband coming out of the kitchen together. The next day Mrs. Peterson came to my house and sat down on the side of the bed and talked with my husband. I then decided that, as Mr. Peterson suspected my husband, I would break off relations with him and Mr. Peterson. I thought for some time that there would be an open parliament on junior work. I feel that my husband was a friend of his. Still later we went camping, and then I found that when I would write a letter to my husband, Mr. Peterson would include a letter from himself to my husband in my own envelope."

WALKING WITH PETERSON.

"It is not true that your husband caught you walking with Mr. Peterson?" "No." "Did you give Peterson the letters?" "No." "Did you tell Peterson that you had gone to his house and been with him?" "No." "Was there anything to prevent you giving the letters to Peterson?" "I didn't intend to give them to him." "Where did you meet Mr. Peterson?" "At the home of Mr. Varadero." "How did you know that he would be there?"

"I sent word to him." "Do you remember what your husband said about it?" "Yes, he was put out about it." "What language did he use?" "I don't remember." "What became of Peterson at that time?"

RICHARD'S INTRIGUE.

"He walked away. Mr. Richards used the story at that time to cast reflection on me when he was so guilty himself. He went so far as to admit to me one day as we were going out to Golden Gate Park that he had been in with Mrs. Peterson. He pointed out the house. It was on Market street, or O'Farrell, or Hayes street. I don't remember which street it was. I could point out the place. My husband said that it was there he got his room."

DID NOT DESERT HUSBAND.

"You say that your husband admitted this offense and yet you continued to live with him as his wife?" "Because I had children." "Why didn't you leave him?" "I had no place to go to." "Did you have your parents?" "I didn't think they would take me in."

AGENT CLIFTON.

Counsel for the defendant then interjected a Mr. Clifton into the case and sought to show a frequency of calls on Clifton's part at the home of Mrs. Richards during her husband's absence, which was likely to be misunderstood. Witness, however, declared that Clifton was an insurance man and had called on her only four times and then he came for the premium on her husband's life insurance, the premium on which had been advanced by Clifton. The calls in question had been made, witness declared, because she was unable to pay the premium owed. She had never, she said, met Clifton save in the presence of other people.

SCRUBBED THE FLOOR.

Counsel then got witness to admit that, at times, her husband scrubbed the floor, washed the clothes and did other jobs around the house. Mrs. Richards then moved to the home of Mrs. Wells on Perilla street, in this city, and counsel for the defendant asked a number of questions touching her relationship with one George D. Cotton, who, for a time, boarded at Mrs. Wells'. She admitted that she had, on one occasion, been escorted to the Wells' home by Mr. Cotton's mother's home. On one occasion also Cotton had remained with witness for forty minutes in her room and during that time, she declared, he was engaged in repairing a clock for her baby. She would often meet him by accident on the street, but had never gone to any entertainment with him. She denied that she had ever said to any of her lady acquaintances that she was impressed or greatly pleased with Cotton, or that he was attracted by herself.

CALIFORNIA CLASS HOLDS GRADUATION.

The graduation of the Academy class, with a full four years' course, occurred last evening (Tuesday) in the College Chapel. At an early hour the hall was filled by the numerous friends of the young people who were to appear on the program. The large hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the platform was set off in appearance by five beautiful young ladies in spotless white, and four bright young men in uniform. The black and white scene and the occasion was inspiring, and elicited hearty applause from the audience. The program was as follows: Music, Sonata, Op. 26, A. Flat Major (Beethoven); Miss Pearl Collins, oration, "Self Control True Freedom of the Mind"; Horace Glenn Johnson, oration, "The Influence of Euphrates Ancestry Upon Our Nation"; Alice Willbanks, oration, "The Search for a Man"; Creed Wilson, Gaiety, music, vocal solo (Selected); Miss Helen Brown, valedictory address by Dr. T. B. Brown.

The climax of his episode was the statement by the witness that her husband had admitted to her that he had been intimate with Mrs. Henry Peterson and had admitted the place of the liaison in San Francisco. BERKELEY SUBURBAN NEWS UNIVERSITY

ADDRESSES HONOR SOCIETY.

PROFESSOR BERNARD MOSES SPEAKS BEFORE THE PHI BETA KAPPA.

BERKELEY, May 18.—Professor Bernard Moses of the department of history and political science in the State University, delivered the annual public address of the Phi Beta Kappa, the Greek letter honor society, yesterday afternoon in Hearst Hall. The address was a very interesting one. Professor Moses taking for his subject, "Personal Independence in Social Growth," and was listened to by a large number of friends besides the members of the fraternity. Professor Moses said in part:

"In recent centuries, a new conception of social relations has appeared. This conception rejects the idea of superiority and dependence of each individual man upon the institutions of his intellectual development. It would place the individual man in a position where he would hold only such relations with his fellow man as might be entered into by his voluntary agreement."

"The conscious stirring of our race in past centuries and of our country in the early phases of American life was to make the individual man stand forth in complete personal independence. The claims on the more fortunate and no obligations to the less fortunate."

"Conspicuous among the efforts that have been put forth to furnish relief from the consequences of complete personal independence are those that have resulted in the formation of associations—mutual assistance. Men are willing to make present sacrifices to avoid the inconvenience of ultimately standing alone. They have organized benevolent societies and found in them corporate superiors to whom they could, in a narrow sense, depend. Thus the way to escape from dependence on a personal superior leads to subjection to a corporate superior."

"Holding the principles of the founders of the Republic that our institutions must be based on personal independence, there remains for the people of the United States no course but to insist that those who have failed to maintain such independence through lack of intelligence or industry shall have no part or exercise of political power. In shaping this policy America will realize the policy of ancient democracy. But evidence of the required independence will not be found in membership of a specified social class, as among the Greeks, but in the possession of character and intelligence regardless of occupation or social position. Pursuing this policy and building on the stable foundations of personal independence there yet may be realized in this Republic a popular government, free from the greed of the few and the oppression of the many, a government that will stand by the weak in their struggle for existence, that will divide the centuries and that will abide through the centuries as an inspiration to mankind."

WILL ALLOW UNIVERSITY STUDENTS TO TEACH.

Berkeley Board of Education Decides Not to Prohibit Young Collegians From Practicing.

BERKELEY, May 18.—According to a decision reached at the regular meeting of the Town Board of Trustees last night, students in the University of California who are engaged in the study of pedagogy are not to be denied the privilege of practice-teaching in the local school department. The only change that will probably result from the controversy will be to place the student teachers who are gaining their experience in the public schools under closer supervision.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

City Superintendent S. D. Waterman stated that he had looked into the question, pursuant to instructions from the board and had received letters touching on the subject from E. E. Brown, Professor of the Theory and Practice of Education at the State University and Elmer Nichols, Principal of the Lincoln School.

PROF. BROWN'S IDEAS.

Professor Brown's letter was then read as follows:

"I have read with interest the newspaper account of the last meeting of the Berkeley Board of Education at which the question of the practical working of the student-teacher plan came up for consideration."

"I had a short conference with President Allen of the Board of Education on the subject. I told him of the plan we have entered upon for a full canvass of the question of practice-teaching in connection with our University work during the coming year. We have called F. E. Farrington of Teachers' College, Columbia University, to come to us as assistant professor and devote next year to a full study of this problem as it presents itself here, taking immediate charge meanwhile of the practice teaching as may be carried on through the year. I have seen Mr. Farrington personally and have a high opinion of him as a careful and practical man and he is highly recommended by those who know him best. I am extremely hopeful that he may help us to reach a wise and lasting solution of this whole problem."

"This step is taken with the promise of all possible co-operation from Mr. Heaton and Mr. Holway. I am trying to persuade Mr. Holway to remain with us, alongside with other services, give some of the help that has been asked for in the Berkeley School Department along the lines of geography and nature study. Mr. Heaton is to give a new course in the University on the work of the grammar school principal which is to be closely connected with practice teaching."

"I hope it may appear reasonable to the Superintendent and to the Board to make no serious change in the relations hitherto existing until the plans now in hand may be worked out to some conclusion, satisfactory to all concerned, as I hope they may be in the course of the coming year. We have intended that even the present incomplete developed system should be conducted in such a way as to be of advantage to the Berkeley School Department as well as to the department of education in the University and I am persuaded that it has resulted in such mutual advantage."

"I wish again to express my appreciation to the good which we on the side of the University have received from the arrangement and to thank you and the board, as well as the school principals and teachers concerned, for the courtesy which all have shown us in the matter."

PRINCIPAL NICHOLS' LETTER.

Great interest was also given to the reading of a letter that Superintendent Waterman had received from Principal Nichols.

PARENTS' PROTEST.

Upon the conclusion of the reading of the letters, Waterman said:

"I have received protests from time to time against having inexperienced girls teaching in the local schools. In such case I have given the answer that in some branches of the University work is almost indispensable."

C. L. Biedenbach, the principal of the McKinley School, said that if he were asked the question as to whether the University students did harm by their teaching he would answer no.

"The students were a great advantage in my school," he said, "under the competent supervision of Professor Heaton. As long as the embryo teachers are kept under good supervision they are of great assistance."

School Director J. J. Donohue declared that the citizens of the West End

SAMUEL BATDORF

are opposed to the student teachers. Director Sutherland of South Berkeley declared he had heard no complaint. Director Wickson said he believed the reports of the complainants were exaggerated.

PROF. T. L. HEATON'S VIEWS.

Speaking as a school man but not as the representative of the University Professor Heaton said that he would not send a child of his to a school in which there were practice-teachers.

"Teachers should have at least two or three years' experience," he said, "but as it is in the case of doctors they must begin somewhere. But people who cannot afford it must submit to inexperienced teachers and physicians. There should not be more than thirty pupils to a class, but the question is can you afford it?"

He then went into a long explanation of how the American people squander their tax money and discussed on the evils of corrupt electioneering, revealing in some places that the conditions there are two teachers to every class, one doing the general teaching and the other individual work. I suggest that teachers be introduced here as apprentices on a small pay. Mr. Heaton said that the principal should be relieved so they can do supervisory work."

In conclusion Professor Heaton said that he believed that the University students could be made of great service in the department.

Director Wier said he wanted a definite report.

"I take it that Superintendent Waterman is in favor of the present system and I move that it be continued," declared Director Wickson. "If we bar the student teacher out of the schools it will be striking a blow at many of our own young people."

In the vote that was finally taken it was decided to retain the present system of student assistance.

BERKELEY WINS ANNUAL BLIND OBSERVE INTERSCHOOL DEBATE. CLASS DAY.

Oakland High School Team Loses for the First Time in Seven Years—Banquet After Debate.

BERKELEY, May 18.—For the first time in seven years the debating team from the Berkeley High School, composed of Francis A. White, Arthur W. Bolton and Sam Batdorf, defeated a team from the Oakland High School last evening. Shattuck Hall was comfortably filled with the partisans of both schools and the rival rooting sections entertained themselves and the remainder of the audience by huzzaking each other in concerted yells and cries.

BERKELEY WINS HONOR.

Sam Batdorf of the Berkeley High School was accorded the honor of making the best individual debate of the evening. Before retiring the judges were instructed to select the best speaker of the evening and Batdorf was their choice. This decision was as well as that of the winning team was based upon general ability in handling the question, irrespective of its merits.

In last night's oratorical surmounting the young debaters considered the question that the United States should abandon its protective tariff policy. Berkeley upheld the affirmative.

HOME TEAM OPENS.

White, the first Berkeley speaker, outlined the entire plan of argument that his side followed. He devoted himself to the proposition that the conditions that called forth the protective tariff no longer exist. He said that in turn his colleagues would show that the present protective tariff works positive harm and that a new system had been devised involving none of the evils of the old. White said in part:

"To save our country from actual bankruptcy it was at one time necessary to resort to the policy of protective tariff. There is always a need of a revenue tariff and such a tariff is none of the evils of protection. Clay and Jefferson said that protection was only needed for the establishment of infant industries. That there is no longer need of protective measures is proved in the fact that there are no more few infant industries. Within the last twenty years comparatively few new industries have developed, while on the other hand certain industries have developed to world-wide importance, such as the Standard Oil Company and the United States Steel Trust."

White cited Daniel Webster, John Stuart Mill and William McKinley in support of the stand that he had taken on the tariff question.

FIRST OAKLAND SPEAKER.

The first speaker for Oakland was Ayon Kilgore who opened his speech by reading the tariff plank from the Republican platform. He contended that there were still many infant industries which needed the protection that a tariff schedule afforded. Those cited were rice and wool growing and manufacture of pottery, wire and glassware. The speaker held that it is policy was absolutely essential to the development of a large part of the latent possibilities of the United States.

PROTECTIVE TARIFF.

Arthur Bolton followed on the affirmative for the Berkeley High School. He showed how the present system of protective tariff was injurious to the best interests of the country and working positive harm. The speaker quoted from high authorities to sustain his position.

Oakland's second speaker was Miss Amelia Brazil, an attractive brunette with a good voice. Miss Brazil showed that protection does build up industries by citing cases from the Congressional Record.

BATDORF WINS PRIZE.

Sam Batdorf, the last speaker for Berkeley and the prize winner of the evening, said, "There is no benefit that will compensate for this loss of markets at a time when the question of securing more markets is the most important in the industrial horizon. The opposition can not discover any measure that will remove the difficulty except the abolition of the protective tariff, for it is shown that retaliation is at the bottom of every instance."

OAKLAND CLOSING.

Clifton Brooks of Oakland closed the debate for his side reviewing all the points that had been made on both sides. He was followed by Francis White in a short rebuttal speech.

At this juncture the board of judges, consisting of H. A. Overstreet, R. H. Chamberlain and C. C. Haines, retired to deliberate on the occasion. A few minutes that they were out was spent by the rival schools in yelling. R. E. Chamberlain announced the decision in behalf of the judges.

Oscar H. Kettenbach acted as alternate on the Berkeley team and Herbert Shuey bore a similar relation to the Oakland team.

BANQUET OAKLANDITES.

The Oakland debaters and their friends were the guests of the Berkeley High School Forum at a large banquet given at Stiles Hall following the debate.

The banquet hall was tastefully decorated for the affair at which covers were laid for more than 200.

W. H. Alexander, instructor in Latin and Greek at the High School addressed as toastmaster. Felicitous addresses were made in response to the following toasts that were called for:

"The Judges," C. C. Haines; "Oakland High," James H. Pond; "Berkeley High," W. E. Clark; "Berkeley High School Alumni," Leon Martine; the toast, "The Debaters," was participated in by all six participants.

The Evergreen Cemetery Association are not satisfied with the award of $100 granted them by the board for cutting the foothill road through their property. The association claims $5000 will be none too great a compensation for the damage done, inasmuch as the road will divide their grounds in two parts.

WOMAN LIBERATED.

CHICAGO, May 18.—Mary Biszak, wife of Stephen Biszak, the man supposed to have been strangled and thrown into the Illinois and Michigan canal, last Saturday, has been set free by the Illinois State Police, although detectives are still seeking evidence against her. A constant watch will be maintained over the woman, who during three hours more of questioning continued to deny that the body found was that of her husband.

AFFAIRS AT NEW CHWANG.

TEN TSIEN, May 18.—Lloy's agent at New Chwang, has telegraphed under Tuesday's date as follows:

DISCUSS SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS CLOSING.

HAYWARDS, May 18.—The Clerks and Employers' Association of Haywards met Monday evening and elected the following officers: Manuel Silva, president; Harold Thorup, vice-president; William Clark, secretary; John J. Silva, treasurer.

The association is now on a substantial footing and has its affairs in good working shape. The recent effort to break the Sunday closing custom has aroused the clerks to state of activity and the organization of their association, which had been effected in rather a desultory manner, has now been honorably perfected.

A meeting will probably be held in the Opera House on May 25th for the purpose of explaining to the people what is meant by Sunday closing rules both to clerk and employer. A large attendance is earnestly desired.

"Any person is eligible to membership who will sign the by-laws and pledge."

"The officers shall consist of a grand booster, seven grand assistant boosters and a secretary. The officers shall attend to all business of said club and shall hold office for one year or until successor is elected."

"The club shall be governed by Robert's Rules of Order."

"Pledge: I hereby promise to be a booster and not a knocker; that I will spend my money in Haywards whenever possible and will try to induce others to do the same and that in every way possible I will work for the best interests of the community."

Jesse Woods, president of the U. P. E. C., has inaugurated a movement to have a statue to the memory of Rodriguez de Cabrillo erected. Cabrillo was the Portuguese explorer who discovered California in 1542. Letters have been received by Woods endorsing the plan from Governor Farabee and Senator Perkins.

CALLAO, May 18.—The rock workers' strike has not yet been settled.

SCHOOL TEACHERS ASK RAISE.

BERKELEY, May 18.—A formal request that the salaries of the teachers in the local department be raised or restored to the schedule that was in force before the cut of a number of years ago was made was presented to the Board of Education last night by the principals in the department. The spokesman was principal Charles L. Biedenbach and he succeeded in making such a strong impression on his auditors that the plea for an advance in salaries was referred to the finance and salary committees of the Board with the understanding that a report is to be made to the committee of the whole next Saturday night.

INTERESTED TEACHERS.

A delegation of interested teachers and citizens half-filled the lobby and for more than an hour the attention of the directors.

ASK FOR RAISE.

As a preliminary to his address, Principal Biedenbach presented the following comparative salary tables and proposed remuneration schedule:

Minimum salary for all grades: $350 per annum. To be increased for every two years' experience up to six years, at the following rates: second third and fourth grades, $55 per annum; fifth and sixth, $67.50 per annum; seventh and eighth grades, $80 per annum.

Experience in teaching shall be determined by years of not less than eight months each, taught in graded public schools.

No adequate consideration has been given the matter of principals' salaries as schools have grown in Berkeley. When there were only two schools of any size the salary of the principal at West Berkeley was $180 and at East Berkeley $240. We feel that this matter should be fully considered at this time and that it is just, in fixing the schedule for Berkeley, principal Biedenbach said.

First—That the salaries should be graded according to the number of classes supervised.

Second—That the salaries paid in San Francisco should be taken as the basis used for determining those in Berkeley.

ADDRESS THE BOARD.

In his address to the Board, Biedenbach said in part:

"I want to say that we come before you tonight as the principal of primary and grammar schools. We have felt for years that the salary list needed revision and a week ago we met and talked over a suggested change. Believing that it was the proper thing to do in the case of this matter, and have interviewed the members of the Town Board. We were delighted with our reception, which were exceedingly cordial."

"The members of the Town Board agreed with us in our contention and that the salaries should be raised. We agreed on two things—that there should be a raise in salaries and that they should be graded."

"If our ideas are given ratification the salaries of some of the teachers will be decreased those who have been the most in favor of the present system receiving the smallest pay. But even the increase we ask for would not amount to the salaries paid a few years ago."

"The cost of living is higher in Berkeley than it is in a number of other places and I can say without the least hesitancy that our personnel of the teaching force is higher."

"Speaking from the standpoint of a citizen, I believe that the University students could be made of great service in the department."

The question was finally referred to the finance and salary committees for a report to be made Saturday night.

BLOWING UP PORT ARTHUR.

CHICAGO, May 18.—A special to the Daily News from Che Fco says:

The Daily News dispatch boat Fawnan, while passing Port Arthur about 10 a. m. today heard six heavy explosions.

They appeared to proceed from the inner harbor and suggested the idea that the Russians were blowing up their ships and docks.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—Charles Hood, a boy, was accidentally killed today by an elevator in the store of Hale Brothers, by whom he was employed.

QUAY VERY ILL.

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 18.—United States Senator Quay's condition is reported to be less encouraging. Every precaution is being taken by those about him to prevent a relapse.

WOMEN QUARREL ON STREET.

TWO SISTERS-IN-LAW WHO LIVE CLOSE TO EACH OTHER FIGHT.

Police Judge Smith was called on this morning to tell whether Mrs. Minnie Hoffschneider committed battery on her sister-in-law, Mrs. May Hoffschneider, but the case had such a puzzling look that his Honor postponed it until May 21st.

It appears that two brothers married and settled down in adjoining houses in Millberry street. The bond between the brothers was still further cemented by their going into business together in San Francisco. The two sister-in-laws, according to the story told by Mrs. Hoffschneider, had a good opportunity of getting acquainted and soon fell out.

The climax of their differences was reached yesterday when it is alleged that Mrs. Minnie Hoffschneider committed battery on her sister-in-law. The fight took place on the street. The entire story will be told to Judge Smith on May 21st.

ROWE IS AFTER HIS ENEMIES.

Supervisor H. D. Rowe is not after the men whom he believes are responsible for the recent accusation having been filed against him in the courts charging him with having overcharged the county in his mileage bills to the extent of $38.50. He has asked for an investigation by the Grand Jury and has given that body the names of Harry Morse and J. E. Guilbault as men whom he believes can throw some light on the matter and proposes to have them cross-questioned in regard to the motive for these charges.

The trial of J. B. Sprague on a charge of battery, preferred by James McDermott, who says he was attacked because of the suspicion that he was a union spy, was set for Monday next by Police Judge Smith this morning.

RACE REPORTS ARE ENDED.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—In accordance with instructions received from Colonel Robert Clowry, president and general manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company, the collection and distribution of race track reports was promptly discontinued today at the following points of the company's Pacific division: Sausalito, Sacramento, Los Angeles, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, Wash. These are the only places in this division which have been receiving racing news over the Western Union wires.

The effect of this order is far-reaching and will result in the discontinuance of what has been called the racing departments of the Western Union Company. The racing department has collected and distributed racing news from all the various tracks in the country to subscribers. Hereafter the company will transmit only such messages concerning races as are regularly filed with it for transmission.

"All that I know about the matter," said Superintendent F. H. Lamb of the Western Union today, "is that I received instructions from New York to remove the wires from the poolrooms on the Pacific Coast and to discontinue that service. I have done so, and I suppose these places have no means now of getting reports of the races."

SAN JOSE, May 18.—The Grand Jury today brought in an indictment against Thomas J. Judge Tuttle has continued McGeoghegan's arraignment until next Monday. He has not yet found bail.

GAS STOVE EXPLODES AND BURNS WOMAN.

An explosion of a gas stove yesterday afternoon resulted in seriously burning Mrs. M. Alexander, 578 Telegraph avenue. The flames spread rapidly after the explosion and an alarm of fire was turned in. The blaze was readily extinguished after the arrival of the department, the damage being almost nominal.

Mrs. Alexander was very painfully burned about the arm and face. On the advice of her physician he went to a private hospital, where her burns were treated. The waist of Mrs. Alexander's dress was the cause of her being burned severely. It ignited with the explosion and it was with difficulty that she extinguished it.

BITTER FIGHT IN CONFERENCE.

METHODISTS MAKE CHARGES OF HERESY AND CLAIM DOCTRINES DANGEROUS.

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—The ever-recurring charge of heresy is again agitating the delegates to the general conference. Its latest appearance is in the committee on education, where it has provoked the most acrimonious discussion that has yet occurred between delegates of the present gathering. The outbreak came as a result of the report of a subcommittee on the subject of the memorials received by the conference relating to the alleged dangerous doctrines that are being disseminated by some of the theological schools of the church. Dr. L. W. Munhall of Philadelphia led the supporters of the charges of heresy. He was combated by Dr. Charles J. Little, president of the Garrett biblical institute and Professor Milton S. Terry of the same institution. The fight waxed warm and much feeling was manifested by both sides in the discussion. After hours of heated debate, in which strong charges were made against the accused institutions and as vigorously denied on the other hand, the matter was finally referred back to the subcommittee for a more extended report. Its re-appearance within a day or two will be the signal for another forensic fray that will likely be carried to the floor of the general conference and there fought to a final conclusion.

In addition to the election of eight new bishops by the conference, one of whom will be colored, it is also proposed to elect a colored associate for Bishop Hartwell of Africa. Dr. Campbell of Monrovia, Liberia, is being urged by the missionary officers for the position, and if the office is created it is likely that he will be chosen to fill it.

NOTED DIVINE TO PREACH.

President John C. Kilgo of Trinity College, Durham, North Carolina, will preach at Ashbury M. E. Shepard came here two years ago and took up the work of insurance agent.

Each person will carry food for three meals and a canteen of water.

The night will be spent on or near the summit, and on the morning of Decoration Day the party will return to Danville for lunch. The afternoon train will carry the tramps back to the Oakland Hotel, arriving at 6:30.

SONG THAT DROVE HIM TO HOSPITAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 18.—The song, "Won't You Come Home Bill Bailey?" was directly responsible for landing a man from Oakland in the Central Emergency Hospital here and he is to be held until the physicians can decide as to his sanity. The patient's name is William Bailey, and this is what he had to say for himself.

"Over in Oakland everybody sang that song whenever they met me, and it drove me out of town. I came here on the boat, and they sang it all the way over. I took a car up Market street, but the songmen sang it every car and the conductors sang it as soon as they saw my face. The passengers on my car sang it until it drove me wild."

Bailey sprang from a Valencia street car at Eighth and Market shortly after 9 o'clock in the morning almost into the arms of policeman Morrissey of the Southern Division. He decided a quick glance over one shoulder, then exclaimed, excitedly: "They're after me!"

The policeman questioned Bailey closely, and then became convinced that everything was not right with him. "All I want is a square deal," said Bailey. "I don't want there fellows to say me out. They keep singing at me because I didn't go to the old lady's funeral."

At the hospital Bailey was given a physical examination and refused to eat.
